When: August 28, 2018
9:00 am—1:00 pm

Where: Pechanga Band of Luiseno Indians
Tribal Government Center
12705 Pechanga Rd

NAEPC and the Pechanga Band of Luiseno Indians will be providing this training for tribes with grant programs. Many find the prospect of creating and managing federal grant budgets daunting but with key techniques you can find it easier than you imagined. Kelcey Stricker, Environmental Director for Pechanga has provided this training by request at conferences to assist tribal directors with identifying basic principles on how costs are reviewed and determined as acceptable. She will share tips and reminders to minimize the need for budget revisions and/or corrections after proposals or applications are submitted. Learn these simple tools to take the guess work out of budgeting. Participants will be lead through a process they can use or adapt to their own programs. Participants are encouraged to bring their own budget proposals from past or current grants.
